Investment Outlook & Strategy

The continuous positive economic data from the Developed Markets, continuous loose monetary policies will provide a positive sentiment for the equity market, however the downside risk could stem from further defaults in China, geo-political risks arising from Iraq and the Russian – Ukraine impasse. Recent announcement by our PM on further capital markets liberalization i.e. 100% shareholding allowed for foreigners in Unit Trust companies in Malaysia, removal of compulsory credit rating for bond issuance starting 2017 and allow more credit rating agencies to be 100% foreign owned in Malaysia. This move can be seen to not only infuse more liquidity into the market but may potentially also reduce Government's liabilities and contingent liabilities.

In the short term, investors' interest will likely be cautious and continue to be well spread across the board especially over the small-mid cap space of the market. Hence any market weaknesses should be deemed as an opportunity to accumulate as the potential for a global recovery in 2H 2014 gains traction on the back of a stronger economic recovery momentum in the Developed Markets. Global recovery in these key Advanced and Developed Markets will have a direct positive impact to Emerging Markets (EM) having higher intra-trade content other than their respective strong domestically driven economy, which will provide the fillip to the financial markets globally. As a result of this, reinvestment, rebalancing and/or switching activities will focus towards; (a) specific small to mid-cap for outperformance while selective big-cap index-linked stocks for indexation & dividend yield play, (b) bombed-out over-looked, under-research or ignored companies with cheap valuation against its historical band/peers, (c) good companies which are currently at the wrong market cycle but will benefit moving forward due to its inflection point of structural or induced recovery, and (d) tactical position in specific thematic plays, other than selective defensive-resilient led stocks.
