MANAGER'S COMMENTS

Review

June was a very volatile month as the benchmark index started the month strongly after the Ringgit appreciated against the greenback but took a turn a south due to uncertainties in the run up to the FOMC meeting in mid-June. Markets subsequently rebounded but the major surprise came towards the end of the month when Britain voted to leave the EU in a referendum that saw knee jerk reaction in local markets. The shock was however rather short-lived as buying momentum kicked in due to the 2nd quarter window dressing activities that saw the index gain 28.08 points or 1.73% to end the month at 1,654.08. The broader market underperformed the KLCI, with the FBM Emas up only 1.2% MoM to 11,530pts while the FBM Small cap index declined 1.2% MoM to 15,091pts. Average daily value traded on Bursa in June declined 16% MoM to RM1.8bn.

Investment Outlook & Strategy

Our Tactical short term strategy remains unchanged, i.e. over-weight the small to mid-cap space in anticipation of rotational plays switching away from big-cap index linked stocks that has outperformed the general market over the past few months but have now started to give those gains back. Once short term event driven sentiment factors like Brexit and the Fed's decision on its interest rate stance rolls over, the focus will be back on global equities as the window of clarity is further extended towards the year-end. As such, we should objectively recognize that a potential follow-through market run-up in the next few months after a fallout is possible in view of the liquidity driven factors and evolving market developments.

Hence, our stance is to accumulate on market weakness and lock-in profits once market gains momentum. Any upside surprises in earnings improvement due to the low-base effect in 2H 2016, better than expected economic numbers, further stabilization of the Ringgit and Crude Oil prices, 1MDB's risk of default resolved and positive global developments will augur well for the market. The Window of market opportunity remains very fluid and narrow. As such, the focus on market liquidity fund flows leading indicators will continue to take precedence over pure economic fundamentals in the short term.

The long term investment strategy should reflect such conditions rather than allow our short-term sentiments and emotions to over-rule the logical thought process. Hence, the focus will remain on long term outperformance at the expense of short term gains. As a result of this, reinvestment, rebalancing and/or switching activities will focus towards a combination of defensive and growth stocks providing a steady annual income and high potential capital gains.
