MANAGER'S COMMENTS

Review

The MGS yields rose during the month of March as compared in Feb-14 across all tenor with the exception of the 15years. There was little reaction from the recent BNM decision to hold steady its OPR at 3.00%. MGS remained steady and trading momentum improved during the week due to stronger offshore buying alongside the 10-years GII auction. The overall MGS yields rose by 2bps to 11 bps with the 3-, 5-, 7- 10- and 20-years closed higher at 3.38%, 3.60%, 3.93%, 4.13% and 4.70% respectively whilst the 15-years closed 6bps lower at 4.61%, GII 10years reopening garnered BTC of 2.511 times due to the smaller issue size. Tender result came in at YTM 4.236%, provide better yield pick-up vis a vis MGS 10y.

Investment Outlook and Strategy

In the economic front, Malaysia's inflation rate rose to 3.50% y-o-y in Feb-14, led by increases in the transport, food and utility costs. The industrial production index grew by 3.70% in Jan-14 contributed by growth in the manufacturing, mining and electricity indices. Malaysia's export rose 12.2% as shipments of electronic goods and commodities increased whilst the imports also rose 7.2% mainly from intermediate goods, capital goods and consumption goods. The Malaysia economy is expected to be on track for steady growth in 2014, in the range of 4.5% - 5.5%. On the inflation prospects, the inflation rate is expected to rise above the historical average of 3.0% - 4.0%, due to domestic cost factors, which include the spillover of the price adjustments done earlier. On the monetary stance, the OPR is expected to increase by at least 25bps if the steady growth is intact. At this juncture, the OPR is likely to remain at 3.00% at least until the 2H2014.
