MANAGER'S COMMENTS

Review

In the local front, demand for ringgit government bonds gained traction supported by the Fed's move to hold interest rate steady. The local government bonds staged a strong rally with the 5-/3-year spread narrowed by 7bps from 33bps to 26bps while the 10-/3-year spread narrowed 5 bps from 68 bps to 63 bps.

Trading volume improved as bargain hunting from offshore players seen emerging due to dampened outlook for a Brexit with poll showing increased probabilities for UK to remain. Trading was skewed towards the short and mid-end of the curve, suggesting cherry picking from offshore players.

During the month of June, the re-opening of GII 10-year with an issuance of RM3.5 billion registered a strong book-to-cover ratio of 2.308x reversing the weaker book-to-cover ratio of 1.42x seen in the previous MGS 5-year tender. The average yield of G9/26 was at 4.049%.

As of closed, the overall MGS traded lower by 1 to 11 bps with the 3-, 5-, 7-, 10- and 15-years at 3.24%, 3.49%, 3.75%, 3.89% and 4.17%, respectively.

Investment Outlook & Strategy

The latest MPC statement cites weak global economic developments and volatile financial markets as the main potential risks. Structural issues and geopolitical uncertainties are likely to continue to constraint global economic growth. Despite the affirmation of slower growth and moderate inflation targets, BNM continues to hold its OPR steady at 3.25%. BNM stated that the OPR at the current levels remains accommodative and supportive of economic activity. Nonetheless, BNM remains wary citing downside risks in the global economic and financial environment. The statements seems to imply that if external recovery does not materialize or worsen instead, and hinders Malaysia's growth prospects, then there may be need to ease monetary policy.

Meanwhile, market players will be watching closely developments from the referendum meeting. Should UK remains with the EU, this could influence markets to shift towards a more risk on mode, potentially infusing renewed demand for EM Asian local currency bonds as well as ringgit government bonds.

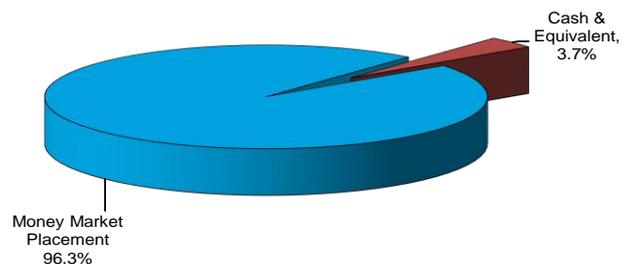

Given the stronger government bond market, we take the opportunity to realized profits whilst continue to take an overweight stance on selected corporate bonds vis-à-vis a more volatile government bond market and pro-actively realigning the asset allocation in line with market movements.

The Fund will continue investing in short term deposits.
