MANAGER'S COMMENTS

Review

During the last trading month for 2017, the performance of our local bourse was more upbeat and rebounded from lows as the market saw more foreign funds returning with a net buy of an estimated MYR0.9bn. This further lifted net buy position for full financial year 2017 to an estimated MYR10.6bn. On top of this, performance in December was also supported on the back of window dressing activities particularly on the last trading day of the year. Several counters such as Nestle, Press Metal and Sime Darby Plantations were added to the FBM KLCI index whilst other counters with the likes of Westports, Sime Darby Property, IJM and BAT were removed. The benchmark FBM KLCI started the month at a low of 1,713 points but was pretty upbeat and was on a rising trend for most of the month. On the final trading day of 2017, the benchmark index rose to a new high to close at 1,796 points, rising 83 points or 4.6% on a MoM basis. It is expected that in the coming year of 2018 that there will be continued high domestic participation coupled with the flow of foreign interests which are anticipated to drive momentum and volatility in our local bourse.

The broader market was weaker relative to the benchmark KLCI whereby FBM Emas closed at 12,942 points, rising by only 4.3% MoM. Small caps also underperformed the benchmark KLCI as the FBM Small Cap index ended the month at levels of 17,051 points, rising by only 1.6% MoM. Overall basis, average daily trading value for the month of December was at RM2.65bn, falling 3% on a MoM basis.

Investment Outlook & Strategy

The recent 3Q2017 earnings results release in December did not provide fresh catalysts for re-rating the market as number of underperformers exceeded outperformers. However, performance of our local bourse rebounded from lows as we see more foreign flows into the market with foreigners turned better to be buyers of the market for most of the month. Moving forward into 2018, market players are of the view that domestic and global economic activities will stay on an upward trajectory given key economic indicators continue to show signs of optimism. It is widely expected that there will be a hike of 25bps by BNM within 1H2018 bringing end-2018 Overnight Policy Rate (OPR) forecast to 3.25%. FBM KLCI's premium compared to regional peers has gone through compression to about 2-3% suggesting downside buffer which should keep local bourse supported. GE14 will also play a role as historically, equity market patterns have been better post-elections hence, the 2H2018 is expected to perform better. Several downside risks remain should there be continued weak corporate earnings, weaker commodity prices and sudden slowing down in GDP rate.

Despite our upbeat overall view of the market spilling over into Q1 2018, our current short term Tactical Strategy remains to be cautious reducing exposure in small-cap stocks skewing towards mid-big-cap index-linked stocks until the respective benchmark indices have done their job of providing its first mover outperformance. Our average equity asset allocation remains at 75% - 85%.

Nevertheless, our long term focus continues to be in value/growth driven, high dividend yielders, under-valued, recovery and thematic plays (Construction/Infra, E-Commerce, General Election, Renewable Energy, IOT, Logistics, Technology, Telco, Tourism & Utilities) that will hopefully shield the portfolio relatively well during market corrections as we favourably position the respective portfolios for 2018.
